Meet our Graduates

IGBOANUGO SOMADILA ANNASTATIA

Bio

I am an Igbo girl from Imo State in Nigeria. I once aspired to become a doctor when I was a teenager and today it has come to pass. I love talking about education and self development, hence the creation of my blog (www.eduscholarattainable.com) and my YouTube channel (Eduscholar attainable).

I believe in working hard and smart, so I try my best to give my all in anything I decide to do. I always want to provide the best result.

I'm a Christian and I believe that God has a hand in our welfares because he gave us the abilities to create and achieve things, therefore I always give God back the glory for all my achievements in life. I also pray to God for guidance and directions.

Judging from my family background and life exposures, I have decided to take life as it comes and continue my journey one step at a time. I hope to look back someday and be glad that I was able to influence lives positively.
